You can be one!

These researchers got interested in science when they were your age. See what they are doing with those interests right here in Kansas today! What might you do some day?